

13.
Sep 2025

KinderKunstFest

🕒 Saturday 10:00 o'clock

Duration: 6 hours

Various workshops with professional artists from the region. For children aged 5 and above. Free admission.

On Saturday, September 13, the Bludenz artist community at Sturnengasse 26 transforms into a colorful creative laboratory for young artists. The Children's Art Festival invites children aged five and up from 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM to partake in six different workshops with professional artists from the region. A small supporting program and fine culinary offerings from the Eichamt restaurant complete the experience – and all of this is free of charge.

Price

All workshops are free and can be attended spontaneously. Donations are welcome and will go entirely to the organization "Geben für Leben" – in line with the motto "Children helping Children".

The Children's Art Festival is a project of the UWYH association, which focuses on resource conservation, environmental awareness, and social development. "It is important to us that children not only become creative but also experience playfully how valuable reuse can be and how significant it is to take responsibility for our community and get involved actively," emphasizes the organizing team.

FAQ / good to know

Date: Saturday, September 13, 2025 from 10:00 to 16:00

Venue: Community Studio Sturnengasse 26, 6700 Bludenz

Entry: free, no registration required

Fundraising Campaign: Give for Life

Program: Art workshops for children aged 5 and up

Artists: Christa Engstler, Omani Frei, Victor Mangeng, Dorothea Rosenstock, Anna Stemmer, Bianca Tschaikner

Catering: Restaurant Eichamt

Organizer: Association Use What You Have (Theresa Bubik, Jasmine Türk, Lisa Vesely)

Important information

"We want to make it tangible that art not only enriches aesthetically, but can also promote creativity, responsibility, and the value of reusability," say the organizers from the association Use What You Have (UWYH), which is organizing the Children's Art Festival.

Professional artists from the region will provide insights into their work on this day and invite children and accompanying persons to try out new creative techniques and implement their own ideas. The program ranges from analog photography techniques to imaginative illustration up to sculptural and painting projects:

Christa Engstler takes you into the world of cyanotype, also known as blue printing - a analog photography technique using sunlight.

Omani Frei experiments with image cutouts and tracing paper – new visual worlds are created, which are brought to life with gouache paint.

Victor Mangeng shapes favorite animals and fantastic mythical creatures with the children from modeling material.

Dorothea Rosenstock invites to weaving with unusual materials, such as beer coasters, toilet paper rolls, or items brought from home.

Anna Stemmer immerses the children in the world of graphic novels – their own stories are translated into images using colored pencils or ink pens.

Bianca Tschakner shows how old sponges can become creative stamps, creating colorful prints on recycled paper.

For small hunger, the adjacent restaurant Eichamt offers food and drinks. In nice weather, the visit can be perfectly combined with the Fröhschoppen of the town music Bludenz, which takes place in the morning right in front of the artist collective.

•

Venue

Sturnengasse 26
Sturnengasse 26
6700 Bludenz

Organizer

Frau Jasmine Türk
UWYH-Verein
+43 650 33 17 353
festival@uwyh.at